EAT & DRINK

and be merry

The farmland of the South Downs is a fantastic resource and one that our many local producers put to good use. Thanks to their efforts, the area is rapidly becoming a foodie's delight!

Delicious delights

Midhurst boasts a traditional, family-run butcher and a charming delicatessen as well as shops selling real ales and fine wines, locally-made ice creams, great cakes and artisan chocolates. You can eat al fresco in the historic Market Square, enjoy cream teas in medieval surroundings and make the most of everything from Spanish tapas through to modern British fine dining.

Outstanding country pubs

Expect gardens with stunning views of the Downs in summer, cosy log fires in winter and landlords who keep great cellars and serve fabulous food that makes the most of locally sourced ingredients.

Just outside town

With a strong focus on locally sourced produce, the award-winning Cowdray Farm Shop and Café sells an array of estate-reared meat, artisan cheeses and charcuteries. After enjoying a browse in the farm shop, pop next door to the café for coffee, home-made cakes and freshly produced meals.

SLEEP

places to rest your head

Midhurst may have played host to Kings, Queens and A-list celebrities but there's accommodation in and around town for budgets large and small.

In Midhurst

Take your pick from stylish self-catering accommodation and elegant B&Bs through to luxurious rooms at The Spread Eagle Hotel, one of the oldest buildings in town. Whatever your style you're bound to find something that is 'just you'. For the adventurous there are yurts, shepherd huts and more!

Out of town

Indulge yourself at Park House Hotel & Spa (complete with golf course, pool and tennis courts) or take your pick from country pubs with cosy rooms and tranquil, rural B&Bs. There are also self-catering cottages and apartments to suit all.

Four legs as well as two!

The South Downs are perfect for dog walking so it's no surprise there's plenty of dog-friendly accommodation.

Midhurst makes the perfect base to get out and explore the beautiful South Downs National Park.

The South Downs Way

This iconic National Trail runs just a few miles south of Midhurst, and offers walkers, horse riders and cyclists breath-taking, panoramic views over the South Downs countryside and out to the English Channel.

Incredible Wildlife

On open chalk grassland, wild flowers like the honey-scented musk orchid and horseshoe vetch thrive, attracting clouds of butterflies in the summer, including the glorious Adonis Blue. Midhurst, Woolbeding, Iping and Stedham Commons are all nearby and are home to unique heathland with wide horizons and intimate, secluded places. You might also see rare birds such as the nightjar and woodlark, as well as reptiles and insects (like the long-horned beetle) that thrive in the heather and gorse.

Even an old town like Midhurst has an ‘Old Town’

We’re talking West Street, Grange Road and Red Lion Street, the area adjacent to Midhurst’s famous Spread Eagle Hotel.

And if you don’t visit you’ll miss out on a selection of classy independent shops filled with oodles of delightful merchandise procured by shopkeepers espousing the kind of old-style customer service that never goes out of date.

As well as jewellery and clocks, bric-a-brac and vintage furniture, furniture upcycling, specialist off-licence, giftware, homeware, toys, wholefood, clothing, handmade soap, books and art there’s an excellent Italian restaurant, two pubs, charming cafés and the tranquil wildlife haven of South Pond.

Why not stop by and sample the new experiences on offer in Midhurst’s ‘Old Town’.
